Legal V. Illegal Economies

Legal: agriculture, industry, Transportation, and trade

Illegal: Drug trade, human trafficking, gang activities
Legal: Agriculture

Farming is the main economic activity in Latin America

Minifundia - small farms

Latifundia - large farm

Cash crops - crops grown in large quantities to be sold or exported. Coffee, bananas, and sugar are cash crops in Latin America.
Legal: Industry

Most of Latin America’s countries are developing

• Many countries are transitioning from agriculture to industry.
  – Ex. Oil industries, Tourism, Manufacturing

• Mexico and Brazil have stronger economies because they have expanded their global trade

Maquiladoras: American and Japanese manufacturing firms build factories in Latin America because the labor is cheaper
Legal: Transportation

- Trans-Amazonian Highway - Highway that cuts across the Amazon Rainforest
- Most major cities have an airport, rail system, and major roads
- Physical barriers limit railroad use
- Amazon, Paraguay, and Uruguay rivers are very important for transportation and trade
Illegal: Drug Trafficking

The movement and sale of illegal drugs

- Drug cartel: drug organization
- Drug production and trafficking zones are heavy in crime and violence.
- Latin America is the region with the most drug trafficking and violence in the world.
Illegal: Human Trafficking

• People are kidnapped, transported around the world, and forced into sex slavery.
Illegal: Gang Activities

- Daily violence between gangs has led to the increased number of illegal immigrants into the United States.
